Long:

From Toronto, Canada, Hans Groover is making his mark in house music, with his records being played by some of the genre's most recognized names in clubs around the world.

Hans grew up as a drummer, playing in bands and developing a musical background that spans jazz, blues, funk, rock, heavy metal and electronic music. That broad range of influences has played a major role in shaping his approach to production, bringing elements from different musical worlds into the club environment.

With an ongoing run of releases, collaborations and growing international support, Hans Groover is continuing to expand his presence across the global house music scene. His project is defined by a willingness to move between styles, explore new ideas and bring a distinctly musical perspective to the dancefloor, establishing him as an artist to watch as he continues to build momentum.
